Fig Brand
The only one recommended by Physicians because of its strengthening and very nutritious qualities.
The results of its use in cases of debility induced by accidental causes are marvellous. This Stout becomes assimilated with the blood in a more efficacious manner than any solids do, and it thus fortifies exhausted organisms. In cases of maternity its use is of the highest importance, for which this brand is universally recommended by the most distinguished members of the Faculty.

HAVAS' AGENCY

London, 18th

Snow falling heavily all over England, and communication interrupted.

A fearful hurricane has done enormous damage, especially on the Thames, where the losses are estimated at over two millions sterling

THE FALL OF LIMA.

The long-expected news from the West Coast arrived yesterday, and even before the second telegram regarding Lima came the few laconic telegraph words of the battle of Chorillos were sufficient to guide the judgment as to the result.

Of course, it must be remembered that our messages come through Valparaiso and even under Chilian Government supervision; the loss of the Peruvians may or may not be exaggerated; seven thousand Peruvians killed and two thousand taken prisoners are the details of one of the bloodiest battles in military records. Strange that the messages say nothing of the Chilian loss, which, as the attacking army, must, we presume, be equally severe; but whatever may be the details, we accept the result. Chorillos was taken by the Chilians at the bayonet's point. Lima has fallen, and all the smothered sympathies that blinded our judgment as to their strong position and natural defences have once again proved the danger of allowing the wish to be father to the thought.

Chorillos in happier days was the little sea-bathing suburb of Lima, about the same distance as Callao from the city of the Incas. The Chilian commander certainly made the most of his first victory, since victors and vanquished almost entered the city together. Such great military energy is rarely a South American characteristic, and it might have fallen out that the Chilian commander, satisfied with his laurels, would have allowed the Peruvians to fall back on her capital in the hope that so disastrous a defeat might lead to the flight of Pierola and the creation of new authorities. Either side's blunder in violating the armistice forced on the crowning struggle, his flight, the surrender of the city, and the close of the war.

The news, disastrous as it is to the Peruvians, has not caused such very great excitement here as many were led to believe in; the event appears to have been over-calculated on; and although our relations with Chile are not on a basis to remove every concern as to the future, still we can see nothing in an event so anticipated, so looked forward to, and so counted upon, to alter in the least the 'statu quo' of Chile and Argentina.

Since the capture of Tarapaca it has been generally admitted that the result of the campaign was a mere question of time. From the firing of the first shot in this disastrous and reprehensible war, the Peruvian army has won nothing but defeat. Some few thought that Pierola's stand at Chorrillos would turn the scales, and that the Chilian soldiers, led away such an immense distance from their homes, would share the same fate as the legions of Varrus: but yesterday's telegrams lift the curtain that hung over the West Coast, and the bones that whiten the sands of the Peruvian Coast are of Peruvians themselves, who in a dark hour committed a political error whose awful consequences now fill our telegram.

Political errors are unlike all other errors; their consequences are inevitable; there is no escape, no atonement, and a whole people and a whole nation is now consequently called to expiate the single political error of their statesmen.

Let us well be on our guard against such errors. Even the present generation of Argentines has witnessed a whole people almost annihilated (the Paraguayans) because their ruler, whilst smoking a cigar after dinner, thought proper to send an officer to stop a passenger steamer. We shall not touch on other political errors that have left their 'sendas' in this part of South America, but the moment is certainly opportune to caution not only our rulers but the people against the dangers that at present surround this splendid country.

General Roca, the President of this Republic, being by profession a military man, must be more on his guard than if he were an auctioneer or a lawyer. The country demands peace: the people sigh for peace, and the interests of the nation are peace. Let nothing, therefore, delude the President and his Cabinet into a war with Chile. The whole territory of Patagonia, Straits and Cape Horn included, are not worth the cost of a month's war. Argentines have great claims on Chile, and Chile will not overlook them. We refused alliance with Peru or Bolivia at a moment when, if the Argentine sword had been thrown into the scale, it would have toppled over the West Coast equilibrium. The policy of the Argentine Government throughout the West Coast war and throughout the long pending Patagonian dispute has been temperate, prudential and honourable. Chilians and Argentines are, after all, one and the same people, but divided by the mountains. As for the dividing lines of territory, Argentines have already shown their willingness to accept any honourable arrangement, and the Chilians, although persistent in their claims, have always betrayed a readiness to settle every matter in dispute by arbitration. Spite of every mo... strict neutr... to be laid down as its policy when the war broke out.

The loss of territory by the Peruvians, as in a previous article we have shown, may be the means of regenerating that country. All England sympathised with France in the Franco-German war, yet she lost Alsace and Lorraine in spite of all our sympathy, and that loss proved, as subsequent events have clearly shown, a blessing in disguise, and France to-day is greater and more prosperous than ever.

The drop scene has fallen on this most disastrous West Coast war, Lima, the city of the Incas, and the last bulwark of the Peruvians has been taken, and without a shot, The news is somewhat hazy, yet sufficient to show that the drama is at last over, and new actors now come to the foot-lights.

The following is the final despatch, which gives pretty much everything anticipated, even to the flight of Pierola:—

(Telegram to Nacional)

Santiago, Jan. 20th 7 a.m.

Steamer Itata, decked from stem to stern with flags in sign of victory, arrived last night from Iquique.

First battle at Chorillos on 13th lasted 9 hours.

25,000 Peruvians in strong position were literally doubled up by 15,000 Chilians.

7,000 Peruvians killed, 2000 captured, and 70 guns taken. Three arms vied in heroism. Chilian loss not known.

The 14th was spent in collecting wounded, and preparations to attack Miraflores, which was defended by 10,000 Peruvians. During the night the Diplomatic Corps requested an interview with General Baquedano, to try and save Lima the horrors of an assault. The General consented on condition of an immediate surrender of the city without terms, and granted an armistice up to midnight.

Baquedano went about his camp giving orders for a fresh attack, in case his conditions were refused, and was suddenly attacked by the enemy, and then began the second great battle, at Miraflores, on the 15th inst.

Pierola had collected the remains of his forces behind the walls and parapets. The invaders scaled the walls with enormous loss, completely routing the enemy.

Pierola has disappeared.

Lima was quietly occupied on the 17th, and Pierola's brother and the War Minister, Iglesias, were taken prisoners.

Chorillos is one mass of ruins, through the springing of the mines.

Here the rejoicings are indescribable: not a soul in the city went to bed, but passed the night in cheering for victory.

When Chilians entered Lima there were no authorities in the place.

The Municipality has been reinstated. Nothing yet known as to surrender of Callao.

The war 'materiel' captured from Peruvians is enormous.

STATE OF IRELAND.

The Times recently published a letter on the Irish Question from the pen of one of the most remarkable men of our own or of any time, Col. C. G. Gordon, or to use the name by which he is known to every English soldier, 'Chinese' Gordon. This celebrated officer has won renown in every quarter of the globe, having as Commander-in-Chief of the Chinese army crushed the Taeping rebellion, and saved the Chinese Empire from ruin. The series of brilliant victories by which at the head of 'the ever victorious army' he rescued the richest and most fertile districts of China from the cruel hands of the Taepings are as brilliant as any of the exploits of Cæsar or Napoleon. Equally celebrated were his achievements in Egypt. As Gordon Pasha he long ruled with brilliant success the Equatorial dominions of Egypt, and all but stamped out the curse of slavery in that vast and fertile land. The present Government, it will be remembered, a few months since appointed Colonel Gordon to the great post of Military Secretary of India, but he resigned it after a brief period, it was believed to keep his hands free should the Emperor of China summon him to take command of the Chinese army in case of a war with Russia. 'Chinese Gordon' has recently visited Ireland, and has communicated his views on this country in the letter which appears in the Times. We turn with deep interest to discern what this famous soldier, traveller, and statesman, who has been in every part of the Old World—who, as Pasha of the Soudan, ruled a territory of ten times the size and twice the population of Ireland—has to say on the great subject of the hour. Colonel Gordon states that he has visited the South-West of Ireland in the hope of discovering how some settlement could be made of the Irish question, 'like a fretting cancer, eating away our vitals as a nation.' He confines his remarks to the North-West, West, and South-West of Ireland, being silent as to the remainder of the country, which he evidence in the first place was a traveller, who has spent his life in Eastern lands among down-trodden populations, who knows Turkey and China and India and Egypt as well as other men know their own parish —mark, we say, how he describes the state of the people in the North-West, and South-West of Ireland — "I must say, from all accounts and my own observation, that the state of our fellow-countrymen in the parts I have named is worse than that of any people in the world, let alone Europe. I believe that these people are made as we are, but they are patient beyond belief, loyal, but at the same time broken-spirited, and desperate, living on the verge of starvation in places in which we would not keep our cattle. The Bulgarians, Anatolians, Chinese, and Indians are better off than many of them are. The priests alone have any sympathy with their sufferings, and naturally alone have a hold over them."

Now if a Land League orator were to declare that the condition of the people in the North-West, West and South-West of Ireland was 'worse than that of any people in the world,' he would, we suppose, be included in the Queen's Bench information? But the statement is not made by u Land Leaguer, but by a Colonel in the British army, a Commander of the Bath, a man second to none in the empire in brilliant achievements, popular repute and manifold experience. Colonel Gordon goes on to say that in the districts mentioned, such is the 'gulf of antipathy, such the complete lack of sympathy,' between landlord and tenant, that when Parliament deals with the land question 'no half measured Acts which left the landlords with any say to the tenantry of these portions of Ireland will be of any use. They would be rendered —as past Land Acts in Ireland have been—quite abortive, for the landlords will insert clauses to do away with their force. Any half-measures will only place the Government face to face with the people of Ireland as the champions of the landlord interests.' 'Such an event would have results,' says Colonel Gordon, 'which none can foresee, but which certainly would be disastrous to the common weal.' And now what is Col. Gordon's proposal? 'My idea,' he says, 'is that seeing-through this cause or that, it is immaterial to examine—a deadlock has occurred between the present landlords and tenants, the Government should purcahse up the rights of the landlords over the whole or the greater part of Longford, Westmeath, Clare, Cork, Kerry Limerick, Leitrim, Sligo, Mayo, Cavan and Donegal. The yearly rental of these districts is some four millions; if the Government give the landlords 20 years' purchase, it would cost 80 millions, which at 3½ per cent. would give a yearly interest of £2,890,000, of which 2,500,000 could be recovered; the lands would be Crown Lands; they would be administered by a Land Commission, who would be supplemented by an Emigration Commission which might for a short time need £100,000. This would not injure the landlords, and so far as it is an interference with proprietary rights, it is as just as is the law which forces Lord A to allow a railway through his park for the public benefit. I would restrain the landlords from any power or control in these Crown land districts. Poor-law, roads, schools, &c., should be under the Land Commission.' Now we will not turn aside to say that we dissent from Colonel Gordon as to any necessity for an Emigration Commission. This in no way deteriorates from the force of the letter, from which we have quoted the most important passages. The letter proves this—that an illustrious Englishman, with unique experiences as a ruler of men, has visited a large portion of Ireland, and has come to to the very conclusion of the Land League—the conclusion that landlordism must be entirely abolished and a peasant proprietary created in its stead—Freeman.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

At last. Yesterday morning, before many merchants had come into town, the Transandine Telegraph wires watted to Buenos Aires the news so anxiously expected for the past fortnight. The Chilians had taken Chorillos, which was however, so heroically defended that 7000 Peruvians are said to have been slain and 2000 captured. As usual the victors conceal their own losses, which are probably greater than those of the vanquished. If even half the number given of Peruvians fell, it must be admitted that they have fallen with honour, and that the final struggle of this disastrous war leaves them some glory to soften the bitterness of utter defeat. The unconditional surrender of Lima was wired an hour or two after. The excitement yesterday when the bulletin boys began to shout was very great; the sheets were snapped from the boys with frantic haste, and it was truly significant to see how the faces of at least 90 readers of every hundred became clouded with disappointment as they read the news. This disappointment was all the greater owing to the 'bolas' going about for the past three days to the effect that the Chilians required 10,000 more men etc. This is now proved to have been moonshine. It is satisfactory that we have heard nothing of blowing up or burning Lima rather than surrender it, a useless, barbarous and barren sacrifice to national vanity which the whole civilized world would have condemned. As far as the despatch goes, the decisive battle was brought on by General Baquedano himself forgetting the armistice, and making preparations for a fresh attack.

The news from Lima gave the 'bola' and rumour market a tremendous impetus yesterday, and the 'gobemouches' had a grand day of it. Amongst other things it was said that the time allowed for the fresh enrolment of the Nat. Guard, which began yesterday, will be considerably shortened. His Majesty King Mammon took a favourable view of the situation, and his aneroid barometer, Gold, fell little in spite of the most desperate efforts by the Bulls.

The report that yellow fever had broken out at Pelotas is categorically contradicted by the correspondent there of the Telegrafo Maritimo, who says that the health of the place is excellent.

The Montevidean papers give ecstatic accounts of the ball given to the 'haut ton' of Montevideo on Monday last by the Captain and officers of the Brazilian corvette Vital de Oliveira. Such a fete was never before seen on Montevidean waters, unless it were Admiral Clanwilliam's ball some weeks ago. According to the 'cronistas,' 'la confianza mas asombrosa' reigned amongst all who were present at this regal entertainment.

The Porvenir of Salto, B.O., declares there is nothing short of wild panic in the families of that town owing to the barbarous murder, in San Antonio, of a widow, aged 40, and her three daughters, aged 18, 16 and 12, by a miscreant named Medina, an outlawed bandit of intamous character. The victims had a race for life, as they were all found at different distances from the house, each corpse literally covered with stabs, the poor little thing of 12 years having the most—EIGHTEEN dagger wounds. An infant son of the murderer and the unfortunate widow was found unharmed in the house, and he says that his father gave him biscuits, and that there were other men with him. By latest accounts one of the authors of the appalling tragedy has been captured by the Paysandu police.

Without going so far as to call Atencio, the policeman who bravely stopped a pair of runaway horses some days ago, and thereby saved the life of a little boy in the carriage behind them, a 'hero,' we cordially join our colleague La Nacion in thinking that he should be rewarded in some way; as such indubitable pluckas he displayed is not very common. London policemen are called on to perform such acts almost every day of their lives, and they are generally rewarded, by promotion or otherwise. Atencio is a brave man, and well deserves any recompense his superiors may see fit (and they should see fit) to bestow on him.

Another noble staple. In 1874 the experimental rice growing in the Northern part of the Republic only yielded 80,000: last year the yield was 920,000 arrobes, a truly stupendous increase in six years. This rice culture has been kept very dark by those engaged in it, and 'quien sabe' how many other products are raising their heads in the Interior without the public knowing anything about it. We have frequently heard that there are more coffee plantations laid out than is generally supposed.

'E pur muove,' In spite of the general belief at Montevides that Latorre is doing nothing particular, the latest news from Yaguaron says that he is 'moving.' This elastic word may mean anything: he wont move until Santos seizes power, and then he will certainly move on Montevideo to make Santos 'move on.'

The question of a capital for this province is again on the 'tapis.' A meeting of notables is to be called to discuss the matter, and the latest rumour is that the choice will lie between Flores, Belgrano and South Barracas. We dont believe it: besides, the latter place is, we imagine, in the city.

The Federalization Fetes on the 8th ult, cost in all $183,90 m|c. which the National Government is about to pay to the Municipality. It was not much for such a grand affair.

We are delighted to perceive that the Post-office authorities are about to make an effort to have the postage on papers to Banda Oriental reduced to reasonable limits. The present postage is simply monstrous, and enough to drive our subscribers over there into the Bankrupt Court, if not ourselves, as our monthly advances in the postage stamp way have grown to heart-rending, and, what is far worse, pocket-rending proportions.

The Colegio Popular will distribute its prizes to the pupils to-morrow night at the Catalan Club, 279 Victoria. There will be grand doings, and we are sorry that a previous engagement will prevent us accepting the kind invitation to attend which we received yesterday.

The Prensa frightened the wits out of all the brokers on the Bolsa yesterday morning by giving the premium on gold as at 31-75 on previous evening. It has not come to that yet, thongh many consider the figure as quite possible before very long.

There was an 'off the line' business on the Western Railway on Wednesday night near Moron. Nobody was hurt but an old horse, the cause of the accident, Several waggons left the rails, and it took a working gang the whole night to get them on again.

Mr. Wolmes, a jewel dealer, was neatly swindled the other day out of $70,000 m|c. A party calling himself a broker took Mr. W. to the Hotel Frescati, where he introduced him to 'a rich estanciero,' who was taking his ease in the best room in the house; he bought diamonds for the above value and gave Mr. W. a cheque on the Provincial Bank, which he at once started to change, leaving the broker and the 'estanciero' in the hotel, The draft was a forgery, and when he got back to the hotel the broker was still there, but the 'estanciero' and the diamonds were gone. The 'corredor' is now cooling his heels in jail, as he is more than suspected of collusion with the false sheepfarmer.

Our readers will be happy to hear that the charming Miss Adela Sammwells has recovered from her late fall in the Politeama and will perform to-night. Miss Margharita Guillaume takes her benefit to-morrow night, and we hope her admirers will crowd to the Olympic entertainment. Both young ladies are favourites of the public.

Although the long expected news from the West Coast of the fall of Lima reached us this morning, there was less excitement on Change to-day than yesterday; gold did not advance as was expected, nor was there indeed any of that excitement which we were led to expect, and which a week or so ago so many speculated on. In fact, the news from London yesterday about the Messrs Baring having restricted the credit of the Provincial Bank had a much greater effect on this market than the battle of Chorrillos, the storming of Miraflores, or the tranquil occupation of Lima by the Chilians, all which news came almost together or with very short intervals between the messages. It is evident from the tone of the gold market to-day that the market has the fullest confidence in the peace policy of General Roca, and that, however frightened they may be in London at the armaments going, on the public here believes that peace will not be disturbed.

Gold opened at 29.65, sold up to 29.70, and closed at opening rate 29.65. The sales of the day reached 1½ million pats, which although much short of yesterday is always a large day's business for this market.

Cedulas hold their own at 87, and on time are weaker; Bonos 99¾. In other stocks nothing done.

The telegram we published this morning of the Havre auction we received supposing from a leading export firm, but as the prices were so flagrantly erroneous, we have reason to believe that the message is spocryphal and was inserted through mistake.

Messrs Gutierrez and Lavarello were the brokers who sold Mr Lezama's splendid estancia de Bandenguez, situate in the partido of Chascomus, one of the finest properties in the South. The estancia is 3 square leagues, all wire fenced and subdivided into potreros, also wire fenced estancia house with large galpones for fine animals, 15 puest s with corrales etc, large montes and alfalfa fields with agricultural machines etc. sold for 6 millions currency, Mr Benito Lando purchaser, who has also bought 20,000 fine mestizos at $50 each. This is one of the most important sales of the season, and establishes a great advance in the price of estancia lands in the South,

The receipts of the Custom House yesterday were 151,000 fts. which shows an immense trade, and the receipts for the month up to Wednesday night were 860,000 fts. We congratulate Mr Cortinez on these flattering figures,

We have received from London the prospectus of the new Argentine Fresh Meat Company, Limited, a most important enterprize; we hold the paper for to-morrow. We note that the Company has made land agreements with the following parties.

Brassey, Wythes and Wheelwright
Paul Krell
J C Simpson
Hugh McLeod,

The matter will highly interest many of our country readers.

Wool when sold is likely to be shipped at much higher rates; one of our steam agents has this morning received orders by telegraph to send home all the steamers in ballast, rates having advanced in Europe, and of the irregular lines only one more steamer is coming this season, so that rates by steamers, sooner or later, are sure to advance. The s.s. Karo leaves this afternoon.

All the news from the West Coast was sent to London this morning in cypher. It is probable that this Peruvian news will have greater effect in the London market than here, where such large amounts of Chilian and Peruvian stocks are held.

News received to-day from Elboeuf, France, of two heavy failures, woollen manufacturers, both doing business with the Plate.

Telegrams from Rio this afternoon announce a fall of 2 per cent in exchange on London in that market, bank bills at 22½.

Respecting the detached squadron we received authentic advices to-day; the vessels are ordered to cruise off the South Coast of Africa, and it is not known yet whether the Bacchante will go on alone or return home.

Mr Little left yesterday for the Falklands, also Mr Harvey.

At afterhours the gold market ruled weaker, about 100,000 sold at 29.50, market closed buyers at 29.50, sellers at 29.55.

Respecting the rumours of yesterday about the Provincial Bank credit in London, what was generally accepted to-day as an explanation of the matter is that the extraordinary exchange credits opened last June for the Bank by Messrs Baring expired at the end of last year and have been closed. How far this explains the matter, we leave to others to decide.

Hides—
8,000 Cordovese at 50 rls.
1,000 dry mat., 30 lbs., 54 rls. gold.

The Karo leaves at once in ballast, and we regret to say that our old friend, Capt. Markwell, of the Hevelius, has remained in Montevideo very ill.

The Halley has brought 1,200 tons cargo and £30,000 sov. for here.

Exchange rules better and bills offering at 49⅞.

We give in our telegraph column a reliable telegram of the Antwerp auction, we can guarantee the figures.

Salted hides still in statu quo, but offering in the market at 46 rls, there are buyers at 45 rls.

We hear of a sale of land in Cañada de Gomez, two leagues, for 6,000 $fts gold for the whole lot.

Messrs. Lamport and Holt's circulars in Liverpool have been received here announcing a great advance in freights. Measured goods 40s. and 10 per cent, iron 40s, and rough goods according to arrangement.

The news of the day was from our wool markets. The doors of the deposits are at last flung open, and the well-known Gorostiaga wool, some 8,000 to 9,000 arrs., for which 157 was refused some months ago, was sold to-day at reserved price. Some of our well-known barraqueros bought more freely to-day, from 10,000 to 15,000 arrs each, and altogether the let-up in gold has helped the market. Moreover, we believe that the depressing news from Europe is exaggerated, and things not so very black on the other side as they are painted. The wool sales yesterday and to-day show a revival in the market, and gold at $30 m|c would prove a very great help at the moment.

The Sales at afterhours were—

The following from Herapath's Railway Journal of Dec. 11th will interest this market:

"The value of money—A long anticipated but none the less an important and grave announcement has lately been semi-officially made, viz., that the United States Treasury proposes next spring to make a bold appeal to credit for about $750 millions or $900 millions at 3½ per cent per annum, to replace a great mass of U. States 6 per cent and 5 per cent bonds which will then fall due. An issue of U. States bonds at 3½ per cent per annum will mark a great epoch not only in the financial history of the U. States themselves but also in the financial history of the world at large. Ten years since the U. States were straining every nerve to issue bonds at 5 per cent per annum; now their credit has grown so strong and money has become so cheap that 3½ per cent per annum is the utmost which they are disposed to give. It would be useless for the Secretary of the Washington Treasury to talk about 3½ per cent U. States bonds if Consols were not above par in London, and it money were not so dirt cheap throughout Europe. In truth the prospect before the capitalist is not at all lively or encouraging. His securities may have hardened in value during 1880, but if they have done so, the result is almost entirely due to the declining value of capital as capital. The collapse of Turkish and other foreign bonds in 1875 and 1876 made Mr Bull so precious-ly cautious that he has since shown a decided inclination to avoid all but the very best securities such as Consols, railway debenture and preference stock', and Colonial Government bonds. As the bonds of the Washington Treasury have been gradually found to be first class securities also, they have risen with Consols and English preferences until everything has been brought to a price which ten years since would have been pronounced preposterous.

"There is such a thing as excessive prudence as well as excessive rashness, and it appears to us that the time has arrived when, if capital is to retain any value at all in this country, it must be employed with a little more courage and a little more enterprise. We have been practically told by that wonderful oracle the City Editor of the Times that there was really nothing safe under the sun. This is the sort of wisdom which has been accepted as financial gospel any time these five years, and we fancy that investors must now think and act for themselves a little more than they have done We think that we ought to be just to the Times and to state that the tone of the City Article of that Journal has somewhat improved of late, and that it is drifting a little away from that darling old stocking which seemed at one time to be the only possible receptable for our 'epargne'. But still we cannot say that the Times leads financial opinion as it ought to do. However, be this as it may, we contend that the time has arrived when English capitalists will have to bestir themselves and endeavour to employ their resources with a little more skill and a little more profit. We think our colonies and the U. States are not turned to anything like their full account. There are thousands of strong arms requiring profitable employment which they cannot find at home, and there are large sums which cannot secure a really profitable utilisation upon the London market. Why should we not club the surplus labour and the surplus money together and endeavour to replenish the earth and subdue it?"

LATEST FROM ITALY

Rome, Dec. 7th

Another new theatre will soon be open to the Romans. The Corea, or Mausoleum of Augustus, has been taken by Count Telfener, who has altered it at great expense into a covered building, suitable for all sorts of representations, dramatic or spectacular. The roof and upper portions are constructed of iron, and will in no way interfere with the ancient walls. Count Telfener is a romarkable man. Many years ago he was contractor for the construction of the railway between Foggia and Brindisi, and in that enterprise he did not succeed. He then left Italy and went to South America, where he realised an enormous fortune. By completing one railway before the stipulated time, he gained some fifty thousand pounds. He married a very wealthy lady, who soon afterwards died. A few years ago he came to Rome and purchased the palace of the Post Office in Piazza Colonna, but was released from the bargain on his buying from Victor Emmanuel the splendid Villa Reale, at Maccas. On this occasion he was created a Count. On the death of Victor Emmanuel, Count Telfener bought from King Humbert the extensive demesne outside Porta Salaria, on which the late King had spent millions of francs, and had erected a magnificent palace. Count Telfener then married for his second wife, the sister of Mrs Mackey, the wife of the Californian millionaire. The Count, however, has never made his way into the best Roman society. The leaders of fashion in the capital of Italy rejected all his advances, and refused to partake of his sumptuous hospitality. He was proposed as a member of the Caccia Club, but that aristocratic association would not elect him, and the gentleman who had proposed him was obliged to send in his own resignation. The Count, then, tried to enter the Italian Parliament, and was elected by a manageable constituency, but such unpleasant remarks were made in the public Press concerning the Count, who, it appears, was then scarcely a naturalised Italian, that he declined to take his seat, and abandoned his ideas of political advancement. He is the possessor of an hotel in the Champs Elysees in Paris, worth some £60,000, and is engaged in financial operations on the Bourse. His new theatre, the Corea, will be ready for Easter next, if not for the Carnival.

The Costanzi Theatre, lately opened, cost over a million and a half of francs in erection, and the owner, Signor Costanzi, had to borrow at high interst and to sell property at a ruinous loss in order to complete it. When excavating for the foundations of this theatre the workmen discovered an Hermaphrodite statue worth, it is said, some £10,000. Signor Costanzi began life a poor man, and served for years as a courier and hotel manager. By industry he amassed sufficient money to buy a share in the hotel, and eventually he built the Costanzi Hotel in Rome and acquired other property of considerable value. He had a son and a daughter, the former of whom announced his intention of becoming a priest, and the latter determined to enter a convent. Costanzi thought it useless to continue the laborious vocation of hotel-keeper, inasmuch as neither his son nor his daughter would benefit by his gain; and, in order to transmit his name to posterity, resolved to build the finest theatre in Rome. He has kept his resolve, for, in spite of its many defects, the Costanzi Theatre is the largest and best in the city; but, as a pecuniary speculation, the theatre is as yet a failure, and it will be some time before Costanzi can be paid for his outlay. He made a ruinous contract with Jacovacci, the 'impresario' of the Apollo Theatre, according to the terms of which only half of the net profits, after paying expenses, goes to Costanzi. It is provided also that during the Carnival (the best part of the Roman season) the Costanzi Theatre is to be closed for operatic performances, in order not to interfere with the Apollo; and, if the proprietor of the Costanzi chooses to give, during that period, masked balls or concerts at his own expense, he must pay half the profits to Jacovacci. Free comments are made in the Roman newspaoers on this extraordinary contract, into which Costanzi was forced to enter by persons who had lent him money, and much sympathy is felt for the unfortunate man, who is no longer master of the handsome building he himself erected. The King made Costanzi a Cavalier of the Order of Crown of Italy, and the Queen has been more than once present at the performances. Curiously enough, the son and daughter of Costanzi, whose resolve to devote themselves to religion was the cause of the father's determination to spend his money on a theatre, have now found that they have no vocations for a religious life, and consequently the son will not become a priest, nor the daughter a nun.

Visitors to Rome may now inspect not only a new theatre, but also a newly-discovered catacomb. Canon Esprit Le Louet has found a catacomb a short distance from Porta Pancrazo, and the excavations already made have opened access to underground galleries, containing about twelve chapels, most of which are adorned with frescoes. This catacomb extends under the Via Aurelia towards the Villa Pamphily, and is supposed to be part of the catacomb of Pope S. Julius I., A.D. 341-352. Some ancient frescoes, discovered last year in the Church of S. Maria del Vivario at Frascati, have been inspected by the Commissioners for Conservation of Monuments, who have ordered them to be restored. Professor Carlo Ludovico Visconti was elected Perpetual Secretary of the Roman Pontifical Archæological Academy, in room of the late Baron Pietro Ercole Nisconti. And the Rev. Francesco Tongiorgi, Canon Enrico Fabiani, and Monsignor Ciccolini, First Custodian of the Vatican Library, were elected censors of the same academy. The British and American Achæological Society will hold its meetings this seasons in the great room of the Arcadia, in the Altemps Palace, which is situated a considerable distance from the English quarter. The celebrated painter Angelo Inganni died lately at Brescia, aged 73 years.

ROSARIO.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Jan. 16th.

The Nacional is very well edited. Its articles are usually full of sound sense, and as an antagonist its language is calm and decorous. On taking up the No. of the 10th inst, I find an editorial headed 'Esto no es politica,' and treats on the repugnance of foreigners to become Argentine citizens. The Nacional asks:

"How shall we explain the difference of the faculty of assimalation in the human groups that inhabit America on the Pacific and on the Atlantic? North America transforms into American citizens Russians, Italians, Spaniards, English men, Germans, and even Chinese; while in South America the foreign child that arrives in the country in swaddling clothes remains a foreigner after fifty years of residence amongst us: and it is not rare to see him after all, turn his eyes to his native land and forget the one in which he was brought up and educated, and in which he has formed a home and family.'

The Nacional asks if the fault lies in the Legislation of the country; in the force and vigour of the native races with relation to the immigrants; (I do not see the connection or relevancy of this idea); in the climate, in the habits and customs of the people, or in the number and density of the population.

If we give a wide application to the words 'las costumbres,' the Nacional may have given the true answer. All his other reasoning is perfectly unsound. The theory of Legislation in the country is as perfect as in the U. States: and as for the climate, if that was all, it ought to turn every foreigner into a good naturalized citizen on his arrival.

No, my good Mr Nacional, you ignore the only valid reasons why foreigners do not care about being Argentine citizens. Has the Nacional been much in the camp, and particularly in the Provinces? If so he may have some experience how Argentine citizens are treated by brutal Comisarios and Comandantes. He may have seen them on occasion of petty 'revueltas' seized without respect of age, driven like sheep to the head quarters, even if they be in the middle of their harvesting. He may have seen them huddled like wild beasts in filthy corrals, half naked and half starved, and treated like dogs by their officers. He may have seen many, driven to desperation, commit crimes and be sent off to the frontiers without a trial. He may have seen soldiers kept unpaid for years after they had fulfilled their term of enlistment. He may have seen respectable youths hunted by Comisiones in times of elections, to satisfy personal animosities. He may have seen men shot down when about to exercise their right at the Polls. He may have seen in all parts of the Republic the dominant party tyrranise over their political adversaries. He may have seen—but why should I continue? He has seen all these things and so has every foreigner. Is it strange then that these should prefer the security of their nationality to the insecurity of being a citizen?

The law of enrolment in this country is quite sufficient to prevent any foreigner from becoming a citizen, for, once enrolled a man here belongs body and soul to a comandante who may be an ignorant, domineering brute, and in the country very often is. The Congress is busy making laws and the nation at large is just as busy breaking or nullifying them. Conscription in Germany and other countries is trying enough, but everything is done in a legal manner. Does the Nacional suppose that the German, flying from the conscription laws in his own country would make himself a citizen of this, where he would be at the mercy of officers who would put him into the 'Cepo Columbiano' for a word. What hope of justice have our poor paisanos as Guardias Nacionales against their oppressors? Well, the lower order of foreigners would be simply paisanos in the event of nationalizing themselves, and would probably be treated worse.

These are hard truths, Mr Nacional. But do you aid in placing the Argentine Republic in the same social and political state as the United States, and I will be the first to aid you in inducing foreigners to become citizens, as, in other circumstances, it is their duty to do, and would be a pleasure.

Dr Gould's friends Rosario were delighted to welcome him back from his trip to Europe, where his name is becoming a household word in the scientific world. He started for Cordoba or the same day of his arrival, by the night train. His friends the stars had put on their best attire to welcome him too, The night was brilliant. The southern constellations, who have all had their likenesses taken by Dr Gould, you might have seen laughing with joy to see their friend back again from his visit to their northern cousins. 'Canis Major' and 'Canis Minor' led by 'Centaurus' began chasing 'The Wolf', frightening poor little 'Lepus' into fits. The 'Peacock' and 'Btrd of Paradise' settled on the 'Royal Oak'; the 'Gemini' pitched into 'Leo'; the 'Piscis Australis' jumped over 'Cetus' and 'Aquarius' filled 'The Cup' at the 'Eridanus' to drink to the health of the great astronomer.

After this last paragraph I am sure you will not insist on my writing anything on such vulgar subjects as commerce, wheat, locusts, &c.; and it would be no use your insisting, anyhow,

W. P.

DEATH OF MADAME THIERS

Madame Thiers died in Paris on Saturday night. She was born in 1818, and was the daughter of a rich banker, a native of Aix, in Provence, who was one of M Thiers's earliest patrons. After he left that town to seek his fortune in Paris, Madame Dosne, her mother, had the prescience of his future greatness, and resolved to facilitate his career by giving in marriage to him her eldest daughter. This marriage took place when the late Madame Thiers was only 15, in 1833. The Daily News correspondent says:—'Mad. Dosne was a woman of brilliant parts and strong intellect. She presided at the Salon of the now historical mansion of the Place St. George, until illness in the closing year of her life disabled her from appearing there. Her daughters learned under her to devote themselves absolutely to M Thiers, to promote the well-being and glory of whom they thought no sacrifice too great. He became the idol of the two ladies, who were inseparable. When, in 1870, he, as winter was approaching, made a rapid diplomatic tour through England, Italy, Austria, and Russia, the two ladies went with him. In coming back, as they approached Tours, the train ran off the line. Madame Thiers precipitated herself between M Thiers and the lowest side of the compartment, so that her body should break his fall. Everything he said and did she thought right. She herself took no part in politics, but she received cordially all who accepted the leadership of M Thiers, and affectionately those who remained faithful to him after May 24th. The ingratitude of Chaugarnier, who for 18 years dined and breakfasted at M Thiers's as though it were his own table, when he had not invitations to other houses, angered her a little. Though M Rochefort, by inciting the Commune to demolish her house, had caused her a world of annoyance and trouble, she rejoiced at his escape from New Caledonia and his advent in New York, the news of which reached Paris the Sunday before the promulgation of the Comte de Chambord's letter, which put an end to the Fusionist project for restoring the Monarchy. When the tidings arrived I was at the Hotel Bagration, where the ex-President was staying. Madame Thiers, to whom it was first communicated, called out 'Monsieur Thiers, Monsieur Thiers, Rochefort has got away. What would I not give to see his first Lanterne?' Madame Thiers was never purse-proud or puffed up with her reflected glory. When she was at the Versailles Presidency and the Elysée, her official greatness did not impel her to change her simple habits and snug mode of housekeeping for ostentatious display. There was always a place and a cordial welcome at the board for any friend of M. Thiers, or anybody whom he asked to drop in. The clever women whose conversation he enjoyed she was especially glad to see. She was, if thrifty, very hospitable, and very charitable to the poor. I never met a woman more sincere, truthful, and in all respects genuine than Madame Thiers. She was excellent to the humbler members of her household when once they gained her confidence, and was latterly surrounded by domestics who had grown grey in her service. With M Thiers's death, all Madame Thiers's interest ceased in the things of this life, so far as they were not connected with his political aims and his glory. She showed herself a heroine in the week that followed his decease. She bore up against her grief, and the desolation of heart and hearth. When it was over she collapsed. Life appeared to her bereft of a purpose. Her beautiful house was condemned to eternal cheerlessness. She conceived a disgust for food. Without suicidal intentions, she literally starved herself to death. The fearful disease which fasting and grief induced had a hard struggle for mastery against her naturally robust constitution, so robust that in a period extending over 62 years she had only one serious illness."

TESTIMONIAL.

Mr Keating, Medical Hall, Gildsome
Nov. 28th 1876

Dear Sir

I think it nothing but my duty to inform you of the immense sale I have for your Worm Tablets, which I may justly say is enormous, and in every case gives the greatest satisfaction. I have now in stock two bottles containing the Round Worm brought me during the last few days' customers, one Worm 40 yards long. I dare not be without the remedy.

Yours respectfully
M. A. WALKER

... the Universities, ... Among the Catholic Colleges, Carlow ranks next to Ushaw and Stoneyhurst in the number of her students who are graduates and undergraduates of the London University. An Examiner from the University of London holds Examinations in Carlow College, to confer Degrees in Arts.

There is a special class under a competent master to prepare students for commercial life, and no exertion is spared to secure the progress of the pupils in the junior classes.

The College is healthfully situated in a park of six acres, which forms extensive recreation grounds for the students.

TERMS:

Pension, including all extras, 35 guineas per annum.

Pension, exclusive of extras, 30 guineas.

St. Mary's Preparatory School

In connection with Carlow Lay College, the Preparatory School of St. Mary's, for Children from eight to twelve years of age, has been re-opened.

Rector—Rev. William P Bourke.

Matron and Professor of French and Music—Miss Finneran.

English Master—Mr P Harnett.

The School is strictly and purposely limited to children of such age, in order that they may be totally separated from the grown boys, and may have all the advantages of minute attention which their tender years require.

The children at St. Mary's are under the special care of the matron, and the rector takes charge of their religious instruction.

TERMS:

Pension, including all extras, 35 guineas per annum.

Pension, exclusive of extras, £30.
